Hi Ian,

Yes, that's all fine. Please go ahead.

Have you investigated the Elaphrus beetles?

<http://www.bioimages.org.uk/image.php?id=69072>

Under the stereo microscope the blue spots seem to hover above the surface. The blue is obviously an interference colour but I think the spots also acts as holograms. First biological occurrence of a hologram would be worth a letter to Nature...

Best wishes

Subject: Requesting permission to reuse Photograph in PhD Thesis

Dear Malcolm Storey,

I am completing my PhD thesis at Imperial College London entitled 'An Experimental Study in the Variation of the Near-Circular Polarisation Properties in Scarabaeoidae Beetles'.

I seek your permission to reprint, in my thesis one Photograph. The Photograph that will be reproduced is: 119105 from (<http://www.bioimages.org.uk/image.php?id=119105>). I read you conditions of use and although my topic is slightly biological, I work in a Physics department (doing my PhD).

I would like to include the extract in my thesis which will be added to Spiral, Imperial's institutional repository <http://spiral.imperial.ac.uk/> and made available to the public under a Creative Commons Attribution-NonCommercial-NoDerivs licence.

If you are happy to grant me all the permissions requested, please return a signed copy of this letter. If you wish to grant only some of the permissions requested, please list these and then sign.

Yours sincerely,

Ian Carter

Permission granted for the use requested above:

I confirm that I am the copyright holder of the extract above and hereby give permission to include it in your thesis which will be made available, via the internet, for non-commercial purposes under the terms of the user licence.
